

Deputy Editor

Part-time

Mid-level

Fathom is a small company that punches above its weight as a leading provider of global economic intelligence. All of our work is based on original, data-driven research and consultancy. We are proud to be independent and innovative, producing analysis that consistently challenges conventional thinking. We write in plain English and aim to give our readers the right amount of expert analysis to bring a subject alive.

We are looking for a part-time Deputy Editor to help ensure that the research notes and reports written by our economists read fluently and conform with the Fathom style book. The successful candidate will be based at our friendly office in London's Shoreditch, with opportunities to work partly from home.

As an experienced journalist or sub-editor, you will work alongside Fathom's Editor and in consultation with our brand and marketing team to ensure that our regular weekly research output is sent out on time and to Fathom's high standards. The role of Deputy Editor will include responsibility for some of the longer, in-depth reports and slide presentations that are part of Fathom's consultancy work for corporate and government clients.

A good understanding of economics and international politics would be desirable, as would the ability to read charts. A sharp eye for grammar, spelling and punctuation is a must. We are looking for a team player, who can work to deadlines and under time pressure.
